Township Seeks to Avoid Conflict Between Need for Housing and Proper Land Use

Preserving the environment and at the same time providing places for people to live are two concepts that continue to face each other across the planning board.

At last week's Township Committee meeting, member Elizabeth Hutter proposed a resolution asking the Planning Board to do a land-use plan, and present it simultaneously with the housing master plan, which is now in the final, wrap-up stages.

Mayor Josie Hall said she'd ask Mrs. Hutter to draw up the proposal and added that although colleague Hugo Hoogenboom hadn't yet learned of the resolution, she felt sure he would agree with its general outline.

The minority members of Committee—Margaret Broadwater and David Blair—said it was the first they'd heard of the resolution, and Mr. Blair said he didn't feel informed enough to vote since "It just landed on the table tonight."

"Seems to me we're jumping into something already very well advanced," he said, referring to the housing plan. "We could set the process back a number of years."

Dr. Broadwater also warned that the resolution could come into conflict with the Planning Board's goals, and Mrs. Hutter acknowledged that this might be the case. But she added,

"Most of the growth will come in the Township and I have a responsibility to see that housing and land use go together as closely as possible."

At the April Planning Board meeting, the board voted 8-1 to retain the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council to go over the maps of the Township's Natural Resources Inventory, reducing the scale to workable proportions and making corrections. The process, to cost $5,340, is expected to take two months.

Before the vote, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley had protested the exasperating slowness with which the housing master plan is moving, and successfully proposed an amendment stipulating that public meetings on the housing plan, which the Planning Board hopes can be scheduled for May, would not be held up while the maps were completed.

In her presentation to Committee on Wednesday, Mrs. Hutter said there was need for detailed soil samplings, determination of the extent of boulders, analysis of water-table depth, and some estimate of the expense of maintaining streets and parking areas which, in some parts of town, could be costly because of freezing.

"I hope this resolution will assure the community, and especially the low-income groups and the elderly, that we are very watchful and concerned with their needs," Mrs.

Wine Talk

By: ARCHIE BROWNE

THE PLEASANT RHEINHESSEN WINES

The Rheinhessen lies to the south of the Rheingau on the left bank of the Rhine and encompasses the area from Bingen to Mainz and then southward to Worms.

It is the second largest wine-producing area in Germany. The wines of this district come mainly from the Sylvaner grape, though the Riesling and other varieties are also grown here (Muller-Thurgau, Gewurzstraminer, Burgunder). The Rheinhessen is the home of Liebfraumilch. This is a name that does not mean anything at all, but because of its tremendous acceptance by the wine-buying public has become synonymous with Rhine wine. It is a blend of wines from all over the Rheinhessen, and the quality of the wine sold as Liebfraumilch is only as good as the shipper. Because of the widely varying soil conditions, a great many varieties of wines are produced in the Rheinhessen. These are usually softer and fuller than those from the Rheingau across the Rhine. There are over 30,000 acres of vineyards, and the average annual production is about 14 million gallons of which 90% is white. The area is made up of 155 different villages of which 120 have names ending in "heim". The better known villages are: Bingen, Bonnheim, Dienheim, Nackenheim, Nierstein, Oppenheim and Worms.

University May Move 4 William Street Houses To Site on Nassau Near Old Elementary School

NASSAU STREET

MAY MOVE OLD HOUSES TO NEW SITE: The four black areas represent four of the six old houses on William Street that will be moved for construction of Princeton University's new biochemical labs. "185 Nassau" is the old Nassau Street School. Houses facing Nassau are already University-owned. The William Street houses would be reached from new pedestrian walkways between Green Hall Annex and Green Hall, off Washington Road. William Street, itself, is off the map to the south.

Those four embattled houses on William Street, marked for removal so Princeton University can build its biochemical sciences building may be moved to the rear yards of houses on Nassau Street east of Washington Road. They would face a new, pedestrian walk.

Meanwhile, the Housing Coalition of Princeton has filed a formal appeal with Borough Council from the Planning Board's approval of plans for the biochemical lab. Robert Hosford, head of the Coalition, said this week that the University's new, proposed move for the houses doesn't affect the appeal.

"I still don't see any need to

SELECTION PROCESS BEGUN

To Fill School Board Seat. The name of Joseph P. Moore was promptly submitted Tuesday night as the first candidate to fill the vacancy caused on the school board by the departure of Judith Getis, following a 7-2 vote to start the selection process immediately.

Anyone who wants to may submit the names of people who might like to be appointed.

Deadline is Monday, May 9. Interviews will begin the following day.

The negative votes were Rosalind Frisch and Dale Madden. The vote and submission of Mr. Moore's name followed almost an hour and a half in which the board labored over wording of its new policy on filling board vacancies.

"You've spent more time on this tonight than you would on any candidate!" Mrs. Eric Craig said indignantly. She was one of many supporters of Mr. Moore who attended Tuesday night's meeting.

Another was Benjamin Colbert, who presented Mr. Moore's name as the first candidate earlier, he had told the board he had 500 signatures supporting Mr. Moore's appointment.

"Mrs. Getis should bow out gracefully now, and let's get on with filling the vacancy," he said.

"There is no vacancy at the moment, so we can't fill it," replied board president Dietrich Meyerhofer.

Mr. Colbert observed drily that it was ironic the board had no policy on filling vacancies. The policy under the anvil Tuesday night had been hammered together quickly after Mrs. Getis announced last month that she will be moving from Princeton.

Who Sets Criteria? As the board moved into a discussion of items put together by its policy committee and explained by member Winthrop Pike, it almost immediately wiped out a provision that the board should set criteria to be used in selecting an appointee. "It is presumptuous of us to decide criteria," board member Robin Wallack declared, "to take it on our

Housing in Township

Hutter said, "We feel these needs can and should be accommodated, but with due concern for environmental factors."

She, too, agreed that public information meetings on the housing plan shouldn't be postponed for completion of the map work.

"This could delay the whole housing master plan," protested Planning Board housing sub-committee chairman Golda Gottlieb this week. "It is very important to get a housing master plan before the sewer moratorium goes off."

Sufficient Base. "With the data we already have," Mrs. Gottlieb said, "plus the Natural Resources Inventory, we have enough of a base for a housing plan. That plan will be superimposed on present zoning districts, and will NOT map new areas."

"A land-use plan can be prepared in due course, while we're doing the ordinances to implement the housing plan. The time when the NRI maps and land-use plan will be of greatest importance, is when developers come in with specific plans."

When the housing plan was first presented, four years ago, "village" sites were suggested on a map.

Since then, Mrs. Gottlieb points out, the housing subcommittee has abandoned this "pre-mapping" because if land is mapped for high density, cost shoots up immediately.

Current plans would require developers to meet site-selection criteria. They would have to comply with environmental specifications, open space criteria, standards of income mix, a mix of types and sizes of houses, and so on. "We still want villages, but we haven't said where," Mrs. Gottlieb explains. "It's up to the developer to get approval."

Density Increased. In another development on the housing scene, the Planning Board voted 7-5 at its meeting last week to increase the maximum average density of housing units to six per acre, instead of the original 4.2, which had been further reduced to 3.2, and also to block out a "village" requirement of 50 to 200 acres, instead of the original 100 to 200 acres.

(In the vote, Martha Lamar, Margaret Broadwater, Hans K. Sander, Martin P. Lombardo, Douglas Kelbaugh, Mrs. Gottlieb and Mayor Cawley voted "yes"; Mrs. Hutter, Mrs. Penick, Jerome Rose, Karl Light and William H. Walker voted "no." At first, it was a 6-6 tie, with Mayor Cawley voting "no," but in a re-vote, he changed his stand and broke the tie.)

Referring to this vote as "a very sudden change, in only one meeting," Mrs. Hutter expressed alarm this week at what she regards as the potential in the change.

"If you have 120 acres net - allowing 25 percent for open space," she estimates, "you could get 720 units. If you figure 2.5 people per unit, you could have, quite suddenly, 1,800 new people in the community."

Warning Issued. She also suggested that the mix of housing implicit in the village idea would be hard to achieve. If developers are going to subsidize lower-income housing from profits obtained through higher cost housing, she warned, villages with this density simply wouldn't get a mix and the community would be a completely homogenous one.

"We want additional housing, but with a plan that has a reasonable possibility of acceptance. This is not a moderate plan."

Also last week, the Dravo Corporation described to the board its housing survey. It's not feasible for a developer to subsidize, without Federal or state help, the corporation told the board. Instead, Dravo suggested, require a developer to donate the land, and then get a housing authority to build.

"This is a possibility we've discussed and discarded," Mrs. Gottlieb observed. "Dravo's survey says that communities which have imposed a variety of mandatory requirements have been overruled in the courts. But they cited places outside New Jersey. Our courts speak very differently, and we have quite a different kind of situation."

Dravo, which eventually wants to build around 600 units in the northern part of the Township, did not discuss its own development, only the survey its staff had prepared.

Charges Denied. Incidentally, Mrs. Gottlieb, who abstained in the vote to retain MSM for work on the maps, said she was indignant at charges of "errors" in mapping.

"I have heard of only one 'error' on an NRI map and that is a slight skewing of a geological formation. Other 'errors' are matters of interpretation, such as the construction capability of the land. I object to this loose talk about two fine environmental planners who work in our region and do good work."

The NRI studies were done by John Rogers and Fritz Golden, who have since established planning offices in Philadelphia.

According to geologist Erling Dorf, who examined the maps at Planning Board request, the error - and it probably was a simple drafting error, in Professor Dorf's view - was made in a New Jersey publication on the geology of Mercer County, a document used by Rogers and Golden.

It incorrectly shows the "Princeton Ridge" in the soft Stockton sandstone, when in fact it is north, in the Lockatong argillite, a very hard shale. Nassau Street runs along the Princeton Ridge. The effect of the mistake is as though Nassau Street were placed somewhere between Penns Neck and Lake Carnegie.

Delay Inevitable. Planning Board chairman Maren Penick estimates a three-to-four-month delay in completion of the housing master plan if a land-use study is undertaken. She points out that New Jersey's new land use law, which went into effect February 1, requires land-use plans.

"If we have this plan proceeding simultaneously with the housing plan, we'd be alerted to assets we might regret losing if we didn't protect them. We already have the NRI maps, flood plain maps, studies of Mountain Lakes Brook and Harry's Brook.

"It would be hard for the public to assess our housing plan unless we have more specifics on land use," she continues. "It depends on what the public wants. Is a verbal commitment to housing enough? Or does the public want specifics on soil, water run-off and so on? Five years ago, the public wasn't demanding on land use, and the state's new land use law reflects this changing public perception."

If Princeton wants Federal or state money for low-income housing, she says, it's important to know that the site is a rocky one. Rocks make construction costs zoom. If these costs are high, there aren't as many housing units for the money.

"Low income sites must be chosen with more care and attention, because of these economic factors. The Planning Board wants to hurry ahead and get the housing plan done, but also wants to be responsive to the public," she emphasizes. "I truly believe we can accomplish social goals -- provide low and moderate-income housing -- while protecting the environment."

"People keep telling me, 'Don't let Princeton change but I don't think they mean no low-income housing.' I think they mean they don't want the flavor to change, and I think we can continue to preserve that flavor."

This is Princeton

why not pick him?" said Joseph Murray, from the audience, and Mr. Pike replied that a long-term policy was needed.

"I'd like to remind you," Mr. Colbert said, "that Joe did demonstrate interest and concern, and participated in the election. It is apparent to the community that he is qualified to serve and would be a tremendous asset."

As it stands now, names may be submitted and interviews with board members will be held. Public participation "shall" be invited (a change from "may"). The board did not say how soon after the interviews it would announce its choice.

BIKE ON MOUNTAIN?

Hazards Are Cited. Is a bike path on Mountain Avenue a good idea? Township Committee has planned a special meeting for this Wednesday at 8, hoping to make a final decision, following a lengthy ride down the proposed path at last Wednesday's meeting.

It would be "extraordinarily difficult" to build, suggested Committee member Hugo Hoogenboom last week. "Either it would be cheek by jowl with the road, or would take a lot of right-of-way. Why not see what happens to traffic after the jug-handle is built?"

Mayor Josie Hall and Committee member Margaret Broadwater agreed.

From the audience, former Committee member Abbot Low Moffat suggested stopping the path short of the Gordon Knox property, which is now up for sale.

"Wait until it's bought by some developer, and make the developer pay for a bike path there," he suggested.

Residents of the road, present in the audience, reported speeders, and Mayor Hall asked Police Lt. Richard Steiner to get the patrols out.

"The danger of the road is the very reason to have a bike path," Mr. Moffat declared. "The path will be particularly needed after completion of The Great Road bike path."

The consensus of those in the audience seemed to be that a path on Westerly Road would be safer and better.

Sayen Appointed. Committee, acting on the nomination of Mayor Hall, appointed W. Harry Sayen to the Planning Board to replace Martha Lamar. Mayor Hall

Committee Approves Genetic Research But Under Wide-Ranging Restrictions

Princeton's DNA citizens committee voted Monday night to allow re-combinant DNA research, subject to "severe" restrictions.

Meanwhile, Princeton University's biology department voted unanimously to ask the University's trustees to decide at their June meeting that University biologists could proceed with DNA research at the P-1 and P-2, or low-risk levels.

Princeton University's officials had ordered that all DNA work be deferred until the final citizens committee report. Indications are that the report may be ready in mid-May. After it has been submitted, both governing bodies must decide what action to take.

The citizens committee agreed that:

- Restrictions could be Federal guidelines, University restrictions or municipal legislation or combinations of all.

- Institutions or commercial laboratories planning DNA recombinant research must register with Borough or Township.

- A bio-hazards committee would be appointed, regardless of what forthcoming Federal legislation or requirements might require.

said she had appointed him for his "broad, regional view" and his experience with urban affairs.

Abstaining, Dr. Broadwater said she had proposed people with expertise in the housing field, and she didn't know Mr. Sayen's work in that area.

"This is very, very sorely needed on the Planning Board," she declared, "and I feel very strongly that with these extraordinarily complex housing questions we can easily become regrettably polarized. This will be a real risk, unless we appoint people who are truly experts."

Dr. Broadwater had proposed former Township mayor James A. Floyd, who is returning to the community, and another whom she had declined to identify publicly. Mayor Hall suggested Mr. Floyd might serve on a consolidation committee.

It was also announced that Walton Johnson would like to resign from the Planning Board because he will be absent for the next 18 months. Mayor Hall said he had agreed, however, to take a leave from the board. He will be replaced by a temporary appointment.

- Two citizens, not employed by the University, should be chosen to serve on this committee and participate fully in its work, although not be involved in policy-making.

- The committee would make periodic, written reports to the public and the governing bodies, describing what its members might regard as potential dangers, and reporting any significant developments or departures from a set of detailed, scientific standards.

- In addition, this committee would report to the institution what the community's view is, and what new laws have been passed.

Committee introduced the ordinance raising the sewer charge $10 a year. Public hearing May 4.

At this Wednesday's special meeting, Committee will discuss an agreement with the state on control and maintenance of the new Mountain Avenue-State Road jug-handle, will adopt the 1977 capital budget and, in work session, consider the final application for a Community Development Grant to buy the Kleinberg property, and discuss further the use of Valley Road's community room.

Discussion of the Natural Resources Inventory is also on the work agenda.

KITE DAY!

Only a Week Away. If you sing, dance, juggle—Kite Day still needs performers. The big, high-flying day will be Saturday, May 7, in the vasty skies of Princeton Battlefield Park.

There may be a fighter-kiter from India, based on the splendid contests between Indian kites, contests so lethal that Kite Day's sponsoring Arts Council, gulping a little, says there will be special string straight from India, impregnated with ground glass to slice up an opponent's kite string. Well!

On the gentler side, there will of course be awards: for the most spectacular kite, the biggest, the smallest, the most imaginative, the most kites on a single string.

Tug of war...a rhythm band (bring your own washboard)...the Jaycees, great big kite, a big box kite, the display of kites now in the public library...and if you don't have one, a table of kite kits so you can make your own.

MORE FIRES REPORTED

Before Rains Came. Township police reported four more fires in the Township last week - all on Saturday.

At 1:34 in the morning, Rupert Chowins of the Bernard Peyton Estate, discovered a fire burning on an embankment near the Pretty Brook Tennis Club on Pretty Brook Road. He entered the club and called police.

When Ptl. Mario Musso and Ptl. John Clausen arrived, they found Mr. Chowins wetting down an area approximately 10 feet square that woods behind his home that was burning. Police said were on fire.

The last few days of April will, for the first time this month, be really like April, on the cool side, a shower here and there, and then on Sunday, it will be May 1. During the first three weeks of the month, temperature readings have ranged from the mid-20s to 90, and early heavy rains were succeeded by 18 consecutive days without precipitation.

The much-needed showers during the first part of the week may be followed by more Thursday, the Man reports, but generally it will be partly sunny through the weekend, with the thermometer ranging between 40 and the high 60s.

Princeton Fire Department responded and found a small area approximately 40-feet square on fire. Mr. Noble had extinguished most of it by the time firemen arrived.

At Evergreen Circle. Around 11 in the evening, a box of trash containing paper and grass clippings placed at the curb ignited when David Ignat, 39 Evergreen Circle, placed hot fireplace ashes in it.

A portion of a bush next to the box was also burned, police said. An extinguisher from a patrol car was used to put out the fire.

Earlier in the evening, Sgt. Robert Heacock went to the home of Margaret Dennehy, 59 Stetson Way, and removed articles of clothing from a dryer that were smouldering.

He placed them in a sink of water and then opened windows to ventilate the room of smoke.

Police blamed the fire on a possible malfunction in the dryer.

Hot Seat. The Borough also reported a small fire on the same day at 3:32 in the afternoon.

Police said that a portable outside "John" at the rear of a professional building under construction adjacent to the Hook & Ladder Fire Company on Harrison Street had caught fire.

It was put out "without incident" said Capt. Theodore Lewis. Capt. Lewis replied that he did not know if anyone was inside at the time, "but if they were, you can be sure they weren't there by the time the firemen arrived."

REFUSES TO JUMP

Student Punched In Face. Township police are searching for two suspects, one of whom punched Bryant Miller, Room A 214 Princeton Inn College, in the face when he refused to obey his order to jump from a second floor window.

Miller gave police this account. He and another student, Mark Rosenberg, Room A 218, were in a room occupied by Mary Prescott on the second floor and were shouting out the window a few minutes past midnight Saturday night when he saw two men walk across the courtyard in their direction. Nothing was said between them at the time, he said.

The two entered the building, went to the second floor and entered Miss Prescott's room. Words were exchanged between Miller and one of the suspects described as black, around 20, 6-1, wearing a black baseball hat and printed T-shirt. The other suspect was described as black, 5-10, dark complexioned, wearing a green hat.

Miss Prescott, he said, was standing between him and the first suspect. The suspect then walked around Miss Prescott to get to Miller, pushing her and causing her to fall over the bed in the process. He then ordered Miller to jump out the window.

When he refused, he punched him in the face, Miller said. Both suspects then fled the building.

Police said that Henry Herdman ran a red light late Friday evening and struck a car exiting from Snowden Lane operated by John Avery of 81 Castle Howard Court.

There were no injuries. After being charged by Ptl. David Cromwell, Mr. Herdman was released on bail, pending his appearance in Township court.

Mike Zelner of 304 Princeton Inn Dorm suffered the same fate when he left his calculator unattended in the Firestone Library. Its value: $80.

He reported the theft on Friday.

Vandals, she said, had left scratches on the hood, right rear fender and entire left side.

This time, a Virginia plate was taken from an Explorer Motor Home while it was parked in front of the owner's home on Stanworth Lane.

TV SET IS STOLEN

From Lytle Street Home. A 20-year old woman sleeping downstairs, noises upstairs, an assault and stolen car keys—all are part of a theft early Monday morning of a portable television set from a Lytle Street home.

The investigation is being continued by Det. Ronald Holliday.

According to police, the woman was sleeping in a

Additional Radar Equipment Allows Police In Township to Step Up Drive on Speeders

Victims may not agree but the reason why police use radar, says Township Lieutenant Michael Lisi, is not to catch speeders but to persuade all drivers to slow down.

"We want the public to know that we are monitoring traffic every day for speeders," Lt. Lisi stated. As of this month, that monitoring capacity doubled with the appearance of a second MR-7 computerized radar unit, made available to Township police through a government grant.

Most of the time, police will have both radar units in use which will enable them to cover both the eastern and western section of the Township at the same time, Lt. Lisi commented.

He cited figures which reveal that while the number of accidents in the Township has increased each of the past three years, the number of injuries declined to 186 in 1976 from 212 the year before.

"We're still having accidents but at a lower speed, which results in less injury," he said. He added that the radar detection program will be guided by the time of day and the area in which accidents are most prevalent.

With an effective range of 2,500 feet, the MR-7, Lt. Lisi pointed out, is a very versatile preventing injuries.

Hutter Won't Run

Elizabeth Hutter, one of Township Committee's three Republican members, said this week that she will not run for a second term. Mrs. Hutter represents Mayor Josie Hall on the Planning Board.

Borough Republicans have named Priscilla Waring and John Reid. Ms. Waring ran unsuccessfully last year. Mr. Reid is a retired investment counsellor.

Township Republicans haven't yet revealed their candidates.

Borough incumbents Nelson van den Blink and Leona Medvin have both announced that they will run for the Democrats. In the Township, Democratic candidates will be David Klein and Kate Litvack. Margaret Broadwater is not running for re-election.

SUITS BROUGHT

A gainst University Hospital. Charges of racial job bias against the University, and rough handling against the Princeton Medical Center have been filed in Federal and state courts.

Mrs. Margaret M. Flatow, 18 Benford Drive, Princeton Junction, charges that nurses at the hospital in 1975, when she had a baby there, were so careless and rough in handling her during labor and birth that she suffered "severe, serious and permanent injuries," including a slipped disc.

She has filed a suit in Superior Court against the Medical Center and Renee McGrath, a Center nurse. She charges that the hospital "negligently and carelessly caused" her to begin delivery while she was still in the labor room, and that when nurses discovered birth was imminent, they "hastily, negligently and carelessly" had her moved to the delivery room where they "violently jerked and twisted her body around" in order to position her properly on the delivery table. Medical Center spokesmen declined comment on the case.

At the University, Kendrick W. Patterson, a black employee now in the Plasma Physics Laboratory, has filed a $1.1 million racial discrimination suit in U.S. district court based on his discharge by the University from the Computer Center in 1974.

He claims that the University and two Computer Center officials "have established a hiring, promotional and seniority system" which limits the employment and promotional opportunities of blacks.

Mr. Patterson's lawyer, Seymour Hundley Jr., said he plans to challenge the Center's statement that Mr. Patterson was dismissed for uncertified medical absences from work. Other employees with the same record, he said, were not fired.

Palmer Squares, Witherspooners Are Gone; But Boudinotes Are Here to Carry The Tune

Tennis like most other sports requires a fair degree of concentration to be good at smoothie fifties songs "Our Love Is Here To Stay", and players can sometimes wander between points.

On one such occasion in the summer of 1975, when Bev Gellner and Sue Mould faced each other across the net, the idea of forming a singing group first occurred to them. The dream became a reality that fall when Bev, who is director of music for the middle school at Stuart Country Day, and Sue got together, wrote a few arrangements and asked six friends over for a morning of singing.

Within four weeks, the word about an opportunity to sing had spread so rapidly that 25 singers were meeting for the weekly song tests. At this point Bev and Sue enlisted the aid of a third friend, Sheila MacNeille, to help hold auditions and the group was chosen.

From that beginning has emerged Princeton's newest singing group, the Boudinotes, with an all-female cast of 12, following more or less in the footsteps of the Palmer Squares, the Opposite Sextet and the Witherspooners (former groups, now all disbanded). The Boudinotes hope not to follow that far.

In their short history, the Boudinotes have constantly adjusted their direction, but today they could be described as a small "a cappella" (without accompaniment) singing group using four to six part harmony and original arrangements. Most of their songs are either contemporary or old songs put to modern interpretation.

Their repertoire includes such contemporary numbers as "Laughter in the Rain," "Love Will Keep Us Together", "Afternoon Delight", and "Freedom", are "domestic executives" (housewives) at the moment. Their political views range in all directions, but their biggest arguments, if any, concern what to wear when they sing.

Invitations to sing started to come in just two months after the group was founded, and it has performed in this area at the Art People's Party, the Present Day Club, Newcomers Club, and several private parties.

This weekend will mark a significant step in the Boudinotes' growth into a quality singing group. On Saturday and Sunday, they will perform at the 20th Annual "Spring Sing" in Greenwich.

Spring Sing is recognized as one of the finest gatherings of amateur singing groups across the country, and it is difficult for any new group to obtain an invitation. About 15 groups from cities such as Denver, Detroit, Boston and Washington will perform their best numbers there. The affair has been held in Princeton previously as well as other parts of the country.

Their next appearances in this area will be at Princeton religiously once or twice a week at members' houses. All are married, most with children. Careers have ranged from secretary to formation, call Bev Gellner, president of a Philadelphia wax company. However, most 7165.

Pizzas to Go

It was to be a stolen pizza caper but a student employee of the Student Pizza Delivery Service on the Princeton University campus at first thought it was a joke.

Carrying three pizzas valued at $13, he was walking down Chapel Drive across from Woolworth's on Nassau Street—when he was approached around 12:30 a.m. by a stockily-built six-footer as he neared the unoccupied booth guarding the drive.

The stranger then grabbed the student and started to wrestle with him. As they grappled, another man and two women grabbed the pizzas. All four, police said, then jumped into a brown van and drove off.

ARE YOU A TENANT?
Borough Has Questions.
About 150 tenants living in the Borough will receive a letter from Mayor Robert W. Cawley in the next few days, notifying them that they're part of a survey the Borough is making of tenant and landlord opinion on rent levelling.

Sometime next week, if you're one of the 150, you will receive a phone call from a volunteer in the League of Women Voters. She will ask you questions from a questionnaire prepared as a public service by Robert Levine and Benson.

"We really want to know your views," Mayor Cawley emphasized this week at his weekly press conference.

His letter will re-assure you about the phone call: it isn't from some crank.

Questionnaires for landlords are more difficult to prepare, and landlords won't be interviewed for another week or two, the mayor said.

The mayor also said that discussions are proceeding with the Township about a joint Historic Sites Commission ordinance. No date has been set for introduction in the Borough.

The idea is a "first rate" one, the mayor said, but he told reporters he has reservations about a special site-designating commission. Perhaps the governing body itself should make those designations, he suggested.

The proposed ordinance would allow a municipality to purchase historic houses — like the University's on William Street — that are slated for demolition.

PLANNERS TO MEET

For Light Agenda. The Planning Board will decide next Tuesday whether to reconsider the requests of Claudette Rubin for subdivision and related variances for her 19 Vandeventer property. Originally, the board's sub-division committee was to decide whether reconsideration would be in order, but the committee declined to, and passed the decision on to the full board.

Although the board voted to grant Mrs. Rubin's requests, the affirmative vote was neutralized by application of the board's quorum rules.

Also on Tuesday, the board will discuss the 45-acre gift to the Township of land owned by Mrs. Mary Pardee. Planning board comment is not required; however, Mrs. Pardee's stipulation that no further access be built into the property, affects the extension of Bayard Lane, which has been on the Master Plan for some years.

Trinity Church set up its counselling service in the building at 22 Stockton without formally changing it from single-family to church office. The church will ask the board for conditional use and related variances, and minor site development approval.

BIKE RIDE SATURDAY
To Griggstown and Back.
The Cycle-Cycle Community Bike rides sponsored by the Recreation Department will hold the second ride on Saturday, at 9 a.m.

The group will meet at the Community Park Pool parking lot and ride to Griggstown along the Canal. A rest stop is planned at the Griggstown general store before the return to Princeton. Everyone is invited. To register, call 921-9480.

ROBESON BUST PLANNED

To Honor Late Princetonian. Half of the necessary funds for a bust of the noted actor-singer born in Princeton were raised at a musical "Celebration of the Life of Paul Robeson" Saturday at the Princeton University Chapel.

The sculptor, Professor Joe Brown, will donate the work, and the Paul Robeson Memorial Association is raising the needed $400 cost of materials. It is hoped that the bust may be ready for next year's celebration of the birth of the famous baritone on Witherspoon Street, April 9, 1898.

On Saturday a plaque commemorating the life of Robeson was presented to the two Princeton mayors, Robert Cawley of the Borough, and Josie Hall of the Township, by Mrs. Jeanette L. Cascone, Regional Director of the national Afro-American Life and History Association of Washington, D.C. The association is offering similar plaques to communities at various locations all over the country to note the accomplishments of black Americans. The site for display of the Robeson plaque has not yet been decided.

The Saturday "celebration" was a joint effort of Princeton University students and townspeople and featured gospel singers from Princeton and Bridgeton. Attending, in addition to borough and town officials, were Howard Waxwood, honorary president of the Paul Robeson Memorial Association and former principal of Witherspoon Street School; J. Douglas Brown, honorary vice-president, former Dean of the Faculty at the University and a boyhood friend of Robeson; and Dr. Ben Wright, association secretary.

Speakers included the Rev. Ernest Gordon, Dean of the Chapel; the Rev. Ernest Walker of the Association of Black Seminarians; Adhimu Chunga of Princeton Theological Seminary; and Andrea Briscoe, a junior at Princeton High School, who is winner of the second annual Paul Robeson Scholarship Award.

A resolution of the Board of Trustees of Princeton University, lauding the achievements of Paul Robeson, was read by Adrian Wing, '78, coordinator of the program. Among others participating in arrangements were Leonard G. Brown, Director of the Youth Center; Ricky Cunningham, Robert Hosford, Toni Jones, Mary Lacey, Maurice "Junior" Oldham, who received the first Robeson Award last year at the high school; Anthony Poole, Joan Thomas and John Young.

"AMEND IT"

Sewer Agreement. Amend the service agreement signed by the seven members of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, recommended Borough-Township attorney Gordon Griffin last week.

Both Princeton governing bodies have been alarmed about "contingent liability," which means that all municipalities would have to pay if Hopewell Township decided it wanted bigger sewer facilities.

This agreement could be amended to provide a system of charges taking the contingent liability surcharge into account, Mr. Griffin suggested. If all the Authority communities agreed, the only problem would be timing the change so that rights of the present bond-holders aren't affected; that is, make the change when the present bonds are paid off, and before the new long-term bonds are issued.

If the communities can't agree, Mr. Griffin continued, then ask the courts for a declaratory judgment; what does the "contingent liability" president of Cottey College in clause mean? Can other towns Nevada, Mo., which is subject unilaterally to remove it, ported by PEO.

New state officers will be installed in a business session on Thursday afternoon. Four chapters are hostesses for the present agreement, he suggested a trade-off might be possible.

"I assume engineers and mathematicians can develop a formula to deal with contingent liability so that all communities wouldn't have to bear the costs, if Hopewell wants to expand," he said.

Princeton's two mayors both expressed eagerness to meet as soon as possible to start toward an amendment.

To Sample Attitudes on UN

The League of Women Voters will conduct a telephone survey this week on attitudes toward the United Nations as part of a project that will be carried out in 75 communities across the country. Yvonne Mahru, 924-5711, is the United Nations chairman for the Princeton League.

The object of the poll, entitled "Public Opinion on the UN: What Pollsters Forget to Ask," is to seek out attitudes on U.S. participation in the UN from a broad cross-section of the American public. Mrs. Mahru said that the survey differs from previous surveys of this type because it seeks to discover not just what people think but why they think the way they do on the UN and foreign affairs.

Telephone interviews will be conducted with individuals selected by a scientific random sampling process. A forum will be held May 10 on the results.

PAPERWEIGHTS ON VIEW

At YMCA Antiques Show. A collection of foreign and domestic paperweights will be the highlight of the annual YMCA Antiques Show and Sale to take place on May 7 and 8 at the YMCA, Paul Robeson Place. The exhibit of rare paperweights will include examples of Baccarat, Clichy, and will also display the Somerville Strawberry and footed Millville designs.

Some 38 antique dealers from many Eastern seaboard states will place on sale 18th and early 19th century formal and country American, English and French furniture; glassware, art glass, prints, paintings and miniatures. They will also offer prime examples of folk art, silver, vermeil, pewter, tin, copper and iron. Visitors will also have a wide choice of toys, mechanical and still banks, clocks, early primitive tools, weather vanes and whirligigs.

There will also be red and slip wares; French, German, English, Chinese and American porcelains, as well as quilts, coverlets and many other hard-to-find antiques. According to Mrs. A.C. Reeves Hicks, co-chairman, there will be many fine items on sale, priced to suit most budgets.

Assisting Mrs. Hicks are co-chairman, Mrs. J. Taylor Woodward and Mrs. Francis Clark. Honorary show chairman is Mrs. Bayard Dodge.

TO SELL PLANTS

To Equip Ambulances. The Twin W First Aid Squad of West Windsor Township will hold its fourth annual plant and shrub sale from 9 to 4 on Saturday and Sunday at the corner of Hightstown and Clarksville Roads.

The plant sale will feature a wide selection of flowering plants and hanging baskets and a variety of ground covers, such as English ivy, Baltic ivy and pachysandra. Numerous vegetables will be on hand for those eager to start their gardens and combat rising food prices. To replace winter killed shrubs and trees, the sale will feature crabapple, dogwood, flowering cherry and flowering plum, as well as evergreens.

For a spot of green in the house, there is the ceramic sheep whose body will grow a lush green coat of an edible herb which can be sheared off for use in cooking. Proceeds will go toward equipping the four Twin W ambulances with supplies.

IT'S NEW To Us

AFTER 2½ YEARS...
Jay's Cycles has Grand Opening. A grand opening after two and a half years? Certainly that appears to be an unusually long delay for such a celebration, and yet this Saturday the handsome new Jay's Cycles is doing just that.

This is the result of a series of court appeals that Jay had to contend with before he was finally free to enlarge the original building by 900 square feet. Late in 1974 when he bought the old BP station, it was with the intention of remodeling it into a cycle shop for Tiger Auto's thriving bicycle business.

Then in the spring of 1975 Jay's Cycles actually did open and has operated off and on since. However, extra space was needed for a complete line of bikes and service, and it wasn't until last December that Jay Mironov could begin to turn it into the store he originally planned.

The result is marvelous. The display rooms are large and bright; there is a section just for accessories; a repair room that can service six bikes at once; and storage space for bikes from a 16-inch one with training wheels to a racing cyclometer for measuring distances, compact tool kits and a tire sealer for quick repair of any leaks, 69 cents to $8.99.

Ample Parking. We also found the front most attractive with brick and wood trim surrounding the huge bells, baskets, speedometers, windows. In addition, there is child carriers, bike racks for nice planting and best of all cars, reflectors, locks and ample off-street parking much more are all here too—in which can be quite an asset fact, in most areas you'll even when it comes to loading or unloading a bike from your car.

Bikes from $60 to $200. Bikes begin in price at $59.99 for a 16-cycles will have a greater choice of touring equipment with training wheels and such as packs and ac-coaster brakes. Other accessories. Packs start in price children's models are by Ross at about $6.95 for a bright or Raleigh, and these include orange nylon duck backpack, 20- and 24-inch bikes with and go up to $44.99 for a pair of either coaster brakes or hand orange waterproof nylon brakes and three-speed gears, Kangaroo ones that can be priced to about $100. hung on the rear wheel or Among the full-sized bikes double as backpacks when there is a choice of three, five you're off your bike. These or ten speeds, but the tens are latter also come with outside by far the most popular and pockets and tie-down rings for probably essential if you have sleeping bags or whatever. touring in mind. While these are priced from $95, Jay told

When touring, weight and space must be conserved, and us that you should really count on spending between $150 and

SATURDAY OPENING: Getting ready for the official grand opening of the handsomely remodeled Jay's Cycles, owner Jay Mironov tests one of his favorite bikes, Fugi's 10-speed Dynamic 12.

Jay's Cycles has such helpful items as a pump with a built-in gauge weighing under four ounces, a water bottle that attaches to the bike, a training wheel for measuring distances, compact tool kits and a tire sealer for quick repair of any leaks, 69 cents to $8.99.

He explained that this doesn't mean a less expensive one won't hold up as well. "However, an all-round good bike is an enjoyment to ride," he said. "You'll enjoy one of these and use it more often."

His three favorite ten-speed bikes are Raleigh's Grand Prix, $172; Motobecane's Super Mirage, $200; and Fugi's Dynamic 12, $198—all for the same reasons that they handle well, shift gears easily and are stable.

All the bikes here can be tried, and each one sold comes with a year's guarantee and a $12 service certificate to be used after the first three months.

Also in the bike field are Motobecane's motorized bikes which all of a sudden are popular once again. Possibly this is the result of the recent energy concerns as these get unbelievable mileage for each gallon of gas. They also are reasonably priced to start, $399 or $469—not much when you think in terms of transportation costs.

While some of these things can also be found at Tiger

Auto, Jay's Cycles is the main place and will be the only place by September when Tiger Auto expects to shut down. Jay said, "How can you do everything right? It's impossible." So, from now on he intends to specialize in bikes, accessories and servicing of all models.

Although the grand opening is not until Saturday, the store is open and busy already. The hours are 9 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday with Friday evening hours until 9. So stop by 249 Nassau Street, admire the new store, and enter your name in the grand opening drawing for a 10-speed Raleigh bike or car rack.

SHOES WITH PIZAZZ

At Ricchard's. "This is dynamite footwear," said Dick Lanahan in discussing the Martini Osvaldo line of Spring shoes. "These people have more pizazz in footwear than anyone else," he added, which certainly suggests why this is by far Ricchard's biggest line.

There are more than 60 colors and styles to choose from, running the gamut from casual to dressy. However, regardless of whether the shoe has a thick polyurethane sole or a high gently shaped heel, it will be a sandal and the silhouette will be simple and feminine.

The most casual one has a real cork wedge heel and burgundy or light brown leather uppers with an ankle strap and lattice work across the toes, $39.

While we noticed ankle straps on many of this season's shoes, the slingback is in evidence, too. In fact, the broadest color choice is available in a low wedge-heeled sling with narrow crossed straps across the foot. It comes in red, blue, light brown, black or white patent leather and costs $39.

Dressiest of all was a black or white patent leather high-heeled sandal with a narrow ankle strap and delicate crossed straps across the foot. It also comes in a more tailored version of brown or dark navy leather with a slightly thicker heel, $39.

It's New to Us

$49 for this and $39 for the patent leather ones.

Mr. Lanahan has been buying shoes for Princeton's shoppers for some years now and he knows this is a town that collects old favorites. The Bernardo sandals fall into this category for, with many people, they are a way of life.

They start at $16 for the flat thong sandal in navy, brown or white and rise to $27 for a low-heeled sling with three narrow straps across the top of the foot. The thing is a trademark here, and Bernardo also makes one with an ankle strap and other plain one with rope instead of the usual leather.

Another casual line that Dick Lanahan finds the women return for each season are the Bandolinos. There are cork-soled clogs in leather or suede, simple ankle-strap sandals with a see-through amber polyurethane sole, and rope-trimmed little sandals with crepe soles, $23 to $25.

Some sandal lines have a definite young look, and these lines are important at Ricchard's. Although the thick-soled natural woven hemp and leather padded thongs by Bort Carleton might at first glance seem to deviate from the general look here, they are in fact "very much us," said Mr. Lanahan "and we can't get enough of this look."

The above thongs cost $22 to $24 and have a similar appeal to the hand-made leather sandals, $17 to $19. Also popular with the young are Swedish clogs by Olof Daughters or Mia. Most have open backs and they come plain or trimmed with lattice work, stitching, braid or lacing. There are suede or leather styles in colors such as brown, tan, blue or dark red, from $21 and there are children's sizes too at $17.

Moccasins. Although sandals head the list here, we did see several casual shoes such as moccasins with either a crepe or non-skid boat sole and some soft crepe-soled walking shoes by Rockport casuals, $26 to $32.

We also saw a group of low-heeled walking shoes, some a little dressier than others. They are by Brevitt, Old Maine Trotters and Sebago, and include styles such as a tassel loafer in rust or navy or a rope wedge-heeled shoe with gentle puckers around the hand-stitched toe in cream, light brown or navy, $27 and $30.

There is even a group of Frye boots, which incredibly do sell year round, and this is very much in keeping with Mr.

Lanahan's selection policy of carrying everything but the Foot-Joy Street Shoes. These are very dressy which he says, "I range in price from the high to the low." However, $40's to the $70's, and Mr. Lanahan says, "There is no larger choice of pretty sandals way to buy decent footwear under this price, because the underwear is made up of bags-either fine leather so."

Like the ladies, the men also favor casual shoes with crepe or rubber soles. We saw soft laced ones, low boots, high ones by Frye and moccasins with or without the non-skid boat sole. Also here are hand-made sandals, espadrilles by Bally and even clogs for men,

Chaotic Meeting Deplored.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of an open letter sent to members of the Princeton Regional Planning Board:

After attending your April 19th meeting, we were utterly horrified at the manner in which a very serious proposal was handled in regard to the density in a "village development concept". It appears that certain board members accepted and passed a proposal to significantly increase the density of units per acre (from an original 4.2 units per acre proposal to 6 units per acre) without due consideration or discussion.

At one point total confusion seemed to reign, with one member abstaining on a round of voting due to the haste with which the amendment was handled. Still another member changed his vote after threatening resignation due to the general chaos.

It was our sincere hope and expectation that this most important type of proposal would meet with either acceptance or refusal only after much more serious consideration and deliberation. We had assumed that the Planning Board has responsibility to the Community to prevent this area from becoming congested and over crowded, as well as "undesirable".

If this meeting was an example of things to come, God help us all! Who needs "planned" disaster?

Editor's Note: The letter was signed by Joan C. Jones of 709 Cherry Hill Road on behalf of "Concerned Princeton Residents."

News Of The CHURCHES

RETURNS TO PRINCETON
To Preach at All Saints. Dr. John V. Butler, former rector of Trinity Church, later Dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and finally rector of Trinity Church, Wall Street, New York City, will return to Princeton this Sunday to preach at All Saints' Church, Van Dyke Road, at 10 a.m.

It was while he was at Trinity here in the 1950's that Dr. Butler conceived the idea of building a chapel for that parish's growing congregation, rather than attempting to enlarge the old building in the center of town. Under his leadership the Vestry and other parishioners became interested and by 1959 work began on All Saints' Chapel, as it was first known, using land donated by a member of the parish.

By the time the building was completed in 1960, Dr. Butler had left Princeton for the Cathedral in New York, but he came back to All Saints' to lay the cornerstone. It was his vision that the chapel would one day be independent and there would be then two equal and cooperating episcopal churches serving Princeton.

The Rev. Mrs. Sheay is a 1957 graduate of Hunterdon Central High School who received her bachelor's degree in music from Westminster Choir College in 1962. She served as an organist at a number of area churches and entered Princeton Seminary because she wanted to become more involved in the life of the church. She took her senior year at General Seminary in New York and was graduated in 1975 with a master's degree in theology.

Upon her ordination she will become assistant pastor to the Rev. John C. Belmont Jr., rector.

The stately Georgian Colonial brick and frame main residence is surrounded by terraces and gardens, brick walkways, stately shade trees and long commanding views of the countryside. The second house is an attractive ranch house with its own privacy, and features three bedrooms and bath and a living room with fireplace. The third house is a smaller Colonial set on a hilltop location nestled under old shade. DRAKES CORNER ROAD

We offer Princeton's finest residential property. Built in the early thirties, the architect, owners, and builder produced an exquisitely crafted American house with unusual structural strength and authentic architectural detail. Selected Pennsylvania Stone, concrete and stone foundations, and reinforced concrete subfloors provide the strength. Antique glazing, paneling, fireplace mantles, plank flooring, hardware, and other architectural antiquities too numerous to mention were painstakingly collected and integrated to create an interior of extraordinary charm, taste, and value.

In the main house there are twenty eight rooms, nine full and two half baths, and thirteen fireplaces. Now divided into several living units, the center or owners section is of special note. It includes on first floor a front to back center hall, a study with corner fireplace and bookshelves; a main living room with fine paneling, beams, and fireplace; spacious dining room with fireplace, tile hearth, and lovely antique mantle and corner cupboard; informal dining room with polished brick floors, special shelving, and walk-in fireplace; mudroom; large kitchen and pantry area with adjoining maids quarters.

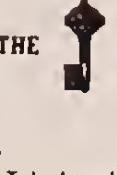

On the second floor a master suite with huge dressing room and bedroom both with fireplaces; a private stairway to the living room below; a master bath; plus four other bedrooms and three baths. Huge floored attic over the entire house, full basement with finished game room. Oil fired hot water heat with individual room thermostats.

To the North of the driveway is a complex of outbuildings including a guest or caretaker's cottage, a four-car garage, and stable or machinery building. The grounds, twenty four acres in all, include a tennis court and spring fed swimming pool, sweeping lawns, huge shade trees, gardens, and protective forest. Price and further details upon request.

"PHEASANT HILL"

An early fieldstone farmhouse plus two fine 20th century additions plus a guest/recreation house plus pretty swimming pool plus lovely rolling land - part open fields, part woods, with a winding brook at the border - our new listing is an outstanding one plus! Though not a large family house, it is a great one for one or two generational living and entertaining with its "reception hall" entry, extra large living room, dining room with a view, family room, study/guest room, 3 more bedrooms, kitchen, pantry, mud/laundry room and 3 baths.

The charm of the old has been enhanced by the use of glass and interior fieldstone in the newer areas, no less than 4 fireplaces for warmth as well as eye-appeal, excellent condition, mature easy-care landscaping, and numerous extras are among the too-many-to-list pluses. Do see it!

Offered with 26+ acres for $225,000
Amount of land may be negotiable

CB
DELIGHTFULLY DECEPTIVE

What appears on the outside to be a rather small, pretty, well-groomed house turns out to be a surprisingly spacious, quite impressive and incredibly immaculate home! Flagstone-floored foyer, lovely large cathedral-ceilinged living room, formal dining room, 4 bedrooms (or 3 and a study), 2½ baths, utility/laundry room - all are pleasant and pristine. But the highlight of the house is the marvelous big combination kitchen and family room with fireplace and sliding glass doors to the handsome brick terrace.

As for the grounds - lush evergreens, flowering shrubs, specimen trees, thick groundcovers, are all part of the professional landscaping planned for easy maintenance and aesthetic pleasure. All in all, it's hard to believe this superbly equipped, fully air-conditioned, conveniently located home has ever been lived in; but it has, and happily!

Employment Opportunities Throughout the Princeton Area

NOTICE

In compliance with a ruling of the State Supreme Court, all newspapers must ascertain that employment ads do not discriminate between sexes.

For example, titles such as "Salesman," "Nurse" and "Girl Friday" should be replaced, respectively, by "Salesperson," "Nurse (M/W)" and "General Office Work M/W". TOWN TOPICS has a copy of the Division of Civil Rights booklet, "A Guide for Employers to the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination," and will provide assistance in the wording of all such ads upon request. Advertisers' cooperation is sought in meeting the requirements of the law.

'I Can' List Creates Confidence in Women Of Middle Age Seeking to Begin a Career

"I'd love to get a job, now we're acquiring a skill. Look it over, find out what you 'can' do." Then document what ANYTHING. All I've ever been is just a volunteer...."

Your documentation might be a course syllabus you put together for the YWCA; clippings of press releases you wrote; a record of the special training course in counselling stuck with church fund raising you took.

Valuable Training. "We look for a common denominator," Ms. Harris continues. "The woman we referred to earlier, who bought all the family homes, has had a sound background in finance: balancing cookie sale books, handling fund-raising, dealing with mortgages, buying and selling, family book-keeping, even up to the income-tax! There are many how to sell a house! And he turned the family bookkeeping over to me the day we got back from our honeymoon. I tell him he ought to pay me for doing our income-tax...."

This woman can do more jobs she could hold where than she has any idea of. Those experiences could be Workbooks to be published used."

Incidentally, this same project at Educational Testing Service, will show volunteer-homemakers how to prepare college which New Jersey the non-traditional resume towns had strong public that can help them get back schools, and decided on the into the world of business or basis of what she learned, that college.

A long "I Can" list, the commute very happily from biggest confidence-builder a Princeton. middle-aged woman ever had. "Now that was a creative has been assembled by Ruth research design!" Ms. Harris B. Ekstrom, Marianne E. says, admiringly.

Lockheed and Abigail M.

Harris of ETS, working with Ms. Harris and the "I Can" The Council of National introduction, suggest Organizations for Adult reviewing the work you are Education.

The project began three years ago, making a list with years ago as a program of the dates.

Fund for the Improvement of Group your activites in Post-Secondary Education broad, topic areas. Maybe Originally, Ms. Harris, Dr. you've been thinking of your Ekstrom and Dr. Lockheed activites too narrowly. For were interested in volunteer example, if you edited the skills that might help a woman school newsletter, maybe you get college credit. They still automatically thought of are. But the skills that could communications and public mean credit could also mean a relations. But actually, you were related to a youth-serving organization.

Spell It Out. "We found that communication was a List Examined. What's in problem in the volunteers and the "I Can" list? home-makers were interviewed," Ms. Harris says, yourself as an Advocate. "I was girl Scout leader for Change agent? The list under three years." Well, what did this heading includes identifying you do?" I did everything..."

"Language was the needed, selecting data and problem! We needed words methods to document the need that could be used by both for change, identifying people college officials and the who are concerned with the volunteers. So we recruited problem on both sides, and representatives of volunteer describing their position, groups—the Red Cross, Jewish identifying key people who Women, Scouts, and so on—can help—in government or and developed our 'I Can' community-finding possible lists."

It's a shopping list of skills developing the techniques to you may have acquired over keep the change, once it's the years without knowing you made.

This could apply to an ardent environmentalist, a volunteer who thinks the agency she's in is stuffy and could do more in the community if some fresh air blew in, the political party worker....and the paid employee in the business world.

How about Counseling? Informal counseling often occurs in conjunction with other activities, the "I Can" list points out. If you're in counseling—perhaps as a "Hot Line" listener—you probably work under the supervision of a professional.

Do you establish rapport with the person seeking advice? Do you know the qualities that make an effective listener? Do you have any or all of the nine questioning skills on the list? Do you know when a problem should be referred to somebody else?

For Homemakers. In the "Homemaker" section, the "I Can" list goes into financial skills at length—including items you might not have thought of, determining which repairs are best done by a professional and not by loving hands at home.

And did you know you were a "Home Nutritionist?" If you can describe the basic nutrients—fats, carbohydrates, proteins, vitamins, minerals—and the way they are digested and used; if you know how nutritional needs vary with different ages; if you know how to prepare food for special diets, assuming someone in your family is obese, diabetic, on a low-salt diet or simply prefers to eat only top-quality, home-cooked ethnic foods—you are a "Home Nutritionist."

The "I Can" list is somewhat intimidating, Ms. Harris has found, and she and her colleagues warn in the introduction that nobody can do ALL these things.

The important thing is to make your own list, find the recurrent themes—caring for people, working alone rather than in a group, handling money, managing large groups of people (remember the time you took his folks and yours and all five kids on the camping trip and everybody had a wonderful time, including you?)—then brainstorm, and build yourself a creative resume.

The three workbooks will be available about July 1. One is for the individual volunteer—homemaker and how you can get back into the world or into college; the second is addressed to the volunteer organization, incorporating the "I Can" list into training goals so that organizations can work more efficiently, and the third is addressed to college personnel, discussing the problems of mature people in the college world.

You can write Ms. Harris at Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J., 08540, or call 921-9000 around July 1. The workbooks will be sold at cost.

TRIANGLE TO OPEN 88th Production Here Thursday. The Princeton Triangle Club, the oldest college musical comedy organization in the United States, will present its 88th production, "Kafka, Tea or Me," at McCarter Theatre Thursday through Sunday.

Under the direction of Milton Lyon and choreographer Michael Maurer, 50 Princeton undergraduates have rehearsed for eight weeks in preparation. "Kafka, Tea or Me" is a book show concerning the fate bound in the ties between an artistically-pure playwright and a commercially-hungry audience. The city is New York.

WHO'S "DISAPPOINTED"? Surely not this trio of robust singers from America's oldest musical comedy, "The Disappointment, or The Force of Credulity," to be presented Tuesday, May 10, in McCarter as a benefit for the Princeton area Chamber of Commerce. They're all dressed up in fine 18th-century style, as befits a 1767 production, and they are, left to right, Ed Miller as Parchment (a scrivener); James Paul Price as Hum, (a tavern keeper) and John Beckley Wright as Rattletrap (a school teacher).

"DISAPPOINTMENT"
From 1767. Members of the Historical Society of Princeton will gather at Springdale Golf Club for a buffet on Tuesday, May 10, before the presentation at McCarter Theatre of the 18th-century musical, "The Disappointment."

The musical comedy, buried for over 200 years, but revived for a Bicentennial production last year, will be mounted as a benefit for the Princeton Chamber of Commerce and its various programs.

The comedy, poking fun at some of Philadelphia's finest—and greediest—citizens in their search for buried treasure, was suppressed after it was written in 1767 because it came too close to home for too many high-ranking officials. The author was one of General Washington's officers.

In the score, which last year's critics found sprightly and full of bounce, there is at least one good show tune: "Yankee Doodle."

The single evening performance will be at 8:30. A 2:30 matinee has been specially priced for students and the elderly. Tickets are on sale at the McCarter box-office.

"THE WIND"
Honoring Kite Day. "The Wind," a ballet in the Isadora Duncan style choreographed by Mila Gibbons, will be danced Saturday, April 30 at the Aparri School of Dance, 217 Nassau, as the fourth event in the Aparri Ballet Festival.

Attendance is open only to those holding reserved seats. Information about the time of performance and ticket reservations may be obtained by calling the Aparri School, 924-1822, between 3-6 p.m., this Thursday and Friday.

The role of the child will be

PIANIST IN CONCERT

Sunday Afternoon. The Friends of Music at Princeton will present Susan A. Mandel, pianist, in a free concert on Sunday at 3 in Woolworth Center on the University campus. Ms. Mandel will perform "Suite Bergamasque" by Debussy; Brahms' "Handel Variations" and works by Chopin and Liszt.

BALL PLANNED
For N.J. Symphony. A music-loving, dance-happy contingent of Princetonians plan to converge by bus on the Giants' Stadium Club at the Meadowlands Sport Complex on Saturday evening, May 21, to take part in the New Jersey Symphony Ball.

Mrs. Peter Lawson-Johnston is chairman of the Princeton Ball Committee of the symphony league. Invitations were mailed to chapter members this week, but everyone is welcome to join in the black-tie occasion by contacting Mrs. Lawson-Johnston or other committee members, Mrs. Roger B. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Charles P. Dennison.

The New Jersey Symphony, the only statewide orchestra in the country, will have a summer concert schedule this year, thereby giving the ball its theme of "An Orchestra for All Seasons." The ball is the only social fund-raising affair staged by the symphony to narrow its operating deficit from playing more than 100 concerts each year throughout New Jersey. Because the orchestra has no permanent home but rather "brings the music to the people," concert sites are arranged by the 11 chapters of the Symphony League all over the State. Just last week, 1,500 Princeton-area elementary school students heard a special children's concert sponsored by the Princeton League at Princeton Day School.

Rep. Millicent H. Fenwick and Malcolm D. Talbott, head of the Rutgers University Fund, are the co-chairmen for the ball. A chartered bus will leave Princeton at 6:15, Cocktails will be served at the Stadium Club at 7:30, dinner at 8:30 and the bus will return to Princeton at 11:30.

BRITTEN OPERA SET
In Choir College Production. The Opera Workshop of Westminster Choir College, Robert McIver, director, will present a full-scale production of Benjamin Britten's "Rape of Lucretia" on April 27, 28, 29 and 30 at 8 p.m. in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus. The public is invited without charge.

The main characters enact the story of the virtuous Lucretia, who is raped by the Roman general Tarquinus after an argument over their wives' unfaithfulness. Lucretia believes there is no forgiveness for what has happened.

The dialogue is heightened by the use of a male and female "chorus" who comment on the play's action from a Christian point of view, contrasting the pagan drama

"ENDGAME" PLANNED

At Murray Theatre. Daniel Seltzer, director of the Princeton University Program in Theatre and Dance, will have a featured role in a production of Samuel Beckett's "Endgame," to premiere at Murray Theatre on Wednesday, May 4.

Joseph Chaikin, Obie award winning director of New York City's Open Theatre, will direct.

Prof. Seltzer was a Tony award nominee for his performance in Jules Feiffer's "Knock Knock." He is a 1954 summa cum laude graduate of Princeton who studied at Oxford on a Fulbright Fellowship and received his Ph.D. from Harvard. Currently a professor of English at Princeton and a Shakespearean scholar, he has written and edited many articles and books and is at work on a book on the phenomena of acting and the styles of various playwrights from Shakespeare to the present.

Prof. Seltzer appeared as Sorin in "The Sea Gull" directed by Mr. Chaikin in New York's Manhattan Theatre Club in 1975. His most recent appearance at Princeton was as Prospero in a production of Shakespeare's "The Tempest" in the fall of 1976. In this production of "Endgame," he will portray Hamm.

Miss Liu will play the third movement of Mendelssohn's Concerto in G minor for piano, conducted by William Smith, assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra. She was given the opportunity to play at this concert as a result

Mr. Chaikin, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., is considered one of the most important and innovative directors in American and European theatre today. First associated with Julian Beck's and Judith Molina's Living Theatre, he established the Open Theatre in 1964 and for the next ten years premiered such works as "America Hurrah," "Mutation Show," and "The Serpent," by Jean Claude van Itallie. Mr. van Itallie is teaching playwriting this term at the University.

Samuel Beckett won the Nobel Prize in literature in 1969, a year after completing "Endgame." Born near Dublin in 1906, he later settled in Paris and wrote plays, novels, and radio-television plays in French which he translated himself. Among his most famous works are "Waiting for Godot" (1952) and "Krapp's Last Tape" (1958).

The four-person cast of "Endgame" will also feature Chris McCann as Clov, Charles Stanley as Nagg and Shami Chaikin as Nell. Steven Gomer, former assistant to Marshall Mason at the Circle Repertory Company in New York, is the associate director.

"Endgame" will play Wednesday through Sunday, May 4-8, 11-15, and 18-22 at Murray Theatre. Theatre Intime will co-produce the play with the Program in Theatre and Dance. Ticket information may be obtained by calling the theatre at 452-8181.

PROBLEMS SOLVED

In Set-Designing. Audiences at Princeton Community Players productions in their intimate theatre at 171 Broadmead are often intrigued with the variety and ingenuity of the space-limited scenery.

"The Importance of Being Earnest," which opens this Friday, will be no exception, for scene-designer John C. Schenck has fashioned two living-rooms and an outdoor terrace within the confines of a 12-by-15 foot stage.

Mr. Schenck gained experience for seven years at McCarter Theatre as stage carpenter, technical director and production director. Since 1971 he has been staff designer for scenery and lighting at Mercer County Community College. Among his other activities he designed scenery for the Princeton Ballet Society's "Alice in Wonderland" and lights for rock shows in Alexander Hall.

Also working backstage on "The Importance of Being Earnest" are John Del Monte and Curt Hall as production co-ordinators, Jane Beard and Melvin Jones as stage managers assisted by Anne Beard, Jim Wisner in charge of lights, Anne Bredon and Marie Miller on costumes, and Fran Ballarotto supervising props.

Ticket reservations may be made by calling 921-6314. In addition to opening night, there will be performances on April 30, May 1, 6, 7, 8, 13 and 14, at 8:30 on weekdays and 7:30 on Sundays. A reception to meet the cast will follow Friday's performance.

LIV ULLMAN COMING

In Bergman Film. The Movies-at-McCarter series Michael Kahn, Producing Director will continue with the Princeton premiere of Ingmar Bergman's "Face to Face," on Wednesday, May 4, at 7 and 9:30.

Nominated for an Academy Award this year, "Face to Face" features Liv Ullmann, who plays Jenny, a psychiatrist, a capable, well-adjusted and established professional woman with husband, daughter and job, whose life suddenly starts to come apart at the seams. While dealing with the reality of her marriage, family, friends, and the emotional anxieties caused by the echoes of her past that emerge to haunt her, Bergman traces Jenny's descent into despair, her unsuccessful suicide attempt, and her apparent recovery.

In a series of dreams and hallucinations, Bergman takes the viewer on a tour of Jenny's subconscious, a plunge into memory that brings to the surface all the insecurities, guilts and angers that she has experienced. More than a mere case history, "Face to Face" is the drama of an intelligent woman attempting to come to terms with her life, with all its contradictions and disappointments.

Tickets may be purchased at the McCarter Box Office from 10 a.m. on May 4.

PLAY SATURDAY

By Street Theatre. Princeton Street Theatre will present "Fractured Fairy Fables" Saturday at 10:30 at the YWCA.

Debbie Bellow is the director of an hour of fun and music in tales of kings and peasants, the wise and the foolish and a goose with golden feathers.

Featured will be Dina Blanc, Naomi Kahn, Nina McPherson, Peter Dolatta, Rochelle Jacobs, Jon Tenny, Karen Schleyer and John Wible. Props are coordinated by Janet Finnie, and costumes are by Eden Stern. Ali Henderson and Julie Lewin accompany with flute and guitar, and Dina Blanc is assistant stage manager.

Tickets are $1, 50 cents for children under 12, and Street Theatre hopes many parents will attend with their children.

PRINCE

Black Sunday. Another disaster film—but wait! This one is a cut above the others.

How's this for a plot? To focus attention on their political plight, Palestinian terrorists plan to obliterate 80,000 spectators at a Super Bowl football game by firing half a million steel darts into the crowd from the Goodyear blimp.

Although its final moments resort to superhuman derring-do and special effects work that tend to strain one's prehension and imprisonment. Father and son face each other through a grill in the visitors' room and achieve between each other a greater understanding than either ever had before. The characters reveal themselves with seeming effortlessness in this simple and direct film. In French with English subtitles.

GRAPHIC ANXIETY: Graphics by Edvard Munch at the University Art Museum articulate that artist's deep anxieties and profound fears. "The Scream" visualizes sound and feeling in one of his most familiar works.

ART In Princeton

EXPRESSIVE GRAPHICS

On View at Art Museum. Although elements of expressionist style can be found in the art of the past several centuries, it was not until the beginning of the 20th century that it defined itself as a definite movement. The term expressionism was created to provide contrast with its chronological predecessor, impressionism. The earlier style was concerned with capturing what was apparent to the eye at a given moment, while expressionism was an effort to visualize feeling and create emotional effect to support the imagery.

Although expressionism as an artistic concept has no nationality, it was in Germany that it developed as a major art movement. There, the work of Edvard Munch, begun in Norway, was significant in shaping the expressionist style. Many of the most important painters and printmakers drew technical and conceptual inspiration from his work. At the same time, his own efforts grew as a result the complementary artistic activity and growth surrounding him.

The work of Edvard Munch articulated his most profound emotions and reflected the darker realities that were a major force in his life. His sexual and emotional conflicts coupled with the overlay of a highly religious childhood and the early death of his mother and sister give rise to a lifetime of creating images that visualized his deepest emotions and fears. Death, lust, love and terror were graphically rendered in many forms with the same imagery often explored in several media.

frequently displayed, can be found in the company of many less familiar prints. The range of the display and the number of included works heightens the effect of the imagery and allows a greater understanding of Munch's rhythms and familiar themes.

Because of the number of prints and the heavy emotional load that they carry, it is difficult to absorb the collection in a single visit. The collection demands several careful examinations in order to enjoy it at its fullest. Happily, the work will be on view until July 1, allowing sufficient time for viewing and re-viewing of this important display.

La Galeria. La Galeria (195 Nassau Street) continues to feature the work of Latin American painters and printmakers. The current exhibition includes a range of subject and style and a wide variety of media.

Among the featured works is a series of genre paintings by Irizarry. Farm scenes, cockfights and other views of everyday Latin life are realistically rendered in muted color. The almost primitive figurative presentation and simple themes contrast with the range from still lifes to landscapes to mood-evoking studies of old buildings.

Boulanger. Her figurative groupings, although the American Watercolor Society and has studied developed in a sophisticated, almost whimsical mode. She has been a prize-winner at Soccer players, tennis players, a group of bicycle riders and a chamber orchestra are all rearranged with concern for pattern, line and color, as well as second developing an amusing prospect.

Miguel Ocamo and Jaime Romano focus on color and space in their respective prisons. Her work demonstrates but provide contrast strates an extraordinary in their forms. Muted color command of the watercolor characterize both artists. The Jinglestone Gallery is though Ocamo employs a at the blinder light in more highly developed Sergeantsville midway between Stockton and Romano used a fluid application of color.

At the Eye for Art. At the turn of the century, advertising media, posters and publications art were often as visually exciting and innovative as the "fine art" of the period. One of the most creative typographers of the period was Will Bradley. He regarded himself as a typographer, and considered other type men as his audience, but his innovative use of type, border design and ultimately his creation of art for covers and advertisements earned him celebrity as an artist.

Examples of Bradley's work which appeared in "The Inland Typographer" can be seen at the Eye for Art. Covers, advertisements and type design demonstrate his skill with pattern and design which both reflected and determined much of what is now considered typical of the period.

The Bradley works are accompanied by commercial graphics of his contemporaries, including some Leyendeckers which are reminiscent of Bonnard lithographs. Contrast is provided by French posters and advertisements of the same period.

SPORTS FANS!

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's an interesting fact that shows how the emphasis is changing in baseball... In 1956, major league teams each averaged about 45 stolen bases per season... By 1966, that average was up 62 percent - to 73 per team per year... Last season, there were 79 percent more stolen bases than there were in 1966, or an average of 131 per team... At the same time, the number of home runs has declined about 32 percent, indicating that the running game is replacing the power game in big league baseball.

Even if you noticed recently that the Washington Redskins announced they were raising ticket prices for the 1977 season, you may have missed 2 parts of that announcement... One was that their most expensive seats will now sell for a league-high of $20 each - but even more interesting, the new price for the worst seats will be $9 each - and from those seats you can't even see all of the field!

Here's an amazing fact about baseman Joe Morgan of the Cincinnati Reds... In his 472 official times at bat last season, Morgan grounded into only 2 double plays all year!

I bet you didn't know... that smoke kills most people who die in a fire in their home. An automatic smoke detector is a must for every home. I have one. Do you?

Harvard Will Oppose Princeton This Weekend In Baseball, Lacrosse and on Lake Carnegie

Strong teams from Harvard will provide Princeton with its principal opposition this weekend. The Crimson's baseball team will play an Eastern League game Friday at 3 on Clarke Field, its crew will defend the Compton Cup against the Tigers and MIT on Carnegie Lake Saturday morning and its lacrosse team will be on Finney Field that afternoon at 2 for a game with the Orange and Black.

A doubleheader with Dartmouth, starting at 1, is also on the schedule Saturday for the baseball team. The weekend series on Clarke Field once had loomed as vital to the ball players' success in the Eastern League race, but a double defeat by Navy at Annapolis last week has eliminated them from contention.

Crew Upsets Penn. A sound race rowed by Princeton's oarsmen and wind-whipped water that bothered Penn more than it did the Tigers combined to give the Orange and Black victory in the baseball team's Child's Cup regatta Saturday by an astonishing three lengths. Three weeks earlier, the Quakers had won the San Diego Classic handily with District II. Now, the future is Princeton fifth.

A nor-easter created virtual squall conditions on the Annapolis went to Navy, the Orchard Beach Lagoon near Long Island Sound, forcing cancellation of some of the thumping 12 to 2. The simple arithmetic is that after winning their first six, the Tigers race, however, a strong have not been playing .500 following wind whipping up ball. In the Eastern League, white water, much of which they are no better than 3-5 and shipped into the Quakers' far off the pace shell.

Favored Penn had a half length lead after 500 meters but Princeton gradually took charge and caught the Red and Blue at the half-way mark. With 800 meters left, the Tigers were increasing their margin steadily and finished the 2,000 meters in 6:21.1. Penn was clocked at 6:35.1, with Columbia another three lengths back.

The outcome permitted Princeton to retain the Child's Cup in the 69th race in the series. It was the first time since 1965 that the Orange and Black had won the nation's oldest college rowing trophy twice in a row.

Beating Harvard Saturday will be an even more difficult task. The crimson almost invariably fields the best crew in the East, often the strongest in the nation. It is the Compton Cup which will be at stake, and no Princeton crew has won it in 20 years.

The freshman race in the regatta will begin at 11, with the junior varsities leaving the stake boats at 11:15 and the varsities at 11:30.

Ball Team's Bubble Bursts. A 6-0 start this season and a 2-1 standing in the Eastern League after its first three games gave Princeton's baseball team visions of playing a contender's role in the race and a berth in the playoffs for a spot in NCAA District II. Now, the future is next year.

Saturday's doubleheader at the Ann Arbor went to Navy, the first game by a narrow 7-6 margin and the second by a cancellation of some of the thumping 12 to 2. The simple events. Princeton, Penn and Columbia held the principal racing their first six, the Tigers have not been playing .500 following wind whipping up ball. In the Eastern League, white water, much of which they are no better than 3-5 and shipped into the Quakers' far off the pace shell.

Senior Bob Tufts dropped his first game of the season to the midshipmen after having won five. The Tigers trailed, 7-0, cut their deficit to one run with a strong rally but could not quite atone for all they had given up earlier.

Monday's see-saw affair with Pennington saw the visitors take a 2-0 lead, before the Panthers scored three runs in the fourth and fifth innings to go ahead 6-2.

They gave it all up immediately, however, as Pennington sandwiched a couple of cheap hits around two PDS errors to score four times and tie the game. It remained that way until the Red Raiders helped PDS win it in the ninth.

The victory, the Panthers' third over teams in its division, has virtually assured the team of a spot in the post-season playoffs for the first time in several years. If the Blue and White, who own a 5-1 mark overall, can defeat Gill-St. Bernards this Wednesday, they may be seeded first in the tournament. Friday, PDS will

Quinn McCord walked, and after Jay Nusblatt flied out, Frank Piccolella singled to right on a hit and run, sending McCord to third. Piccolella wasted no time trying to steal second, and was cut down by a nice throw and a nice tag by the second baseman. It was the second out of the inning and the end of the game, as had enough on the ball to curb the visitors' attack in all but one inning.

West Windsor got three in the second and enjoyed a brief lead. PDS answered with two of its own in its half, went ahead 5-3, with three in the third and scored four more in the fourth. John Hickling had a good day with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly. Frank Piccolella had three hits and Jay Nusblatt, two.

PLUNGE CONTINUES

For PHS Nine. That noise last week was only the sounds of the Princeton High School baseball team bouncing further into the Colonial Valley Conference cellar.

On Thursday, Hightstown's Jeff Catelli one-hit the Little Tigers en route to a 7-0 shutout. The only one to solve Catelli was Scott Thompson, who led off the fourth with a single.

Carl Nazzaro (0-2) held the Rams to one hit through the first three innings but then the home team scored all seven of its runs in the fourth. A two-run double by third baseman Frank Field was the big hit in the rally.

Princeton committed four errors as its Conference mark fell to 0-4. Overall, PHS is 1-6.

737-2008Legion Tryouts Saturday

Princeton Post 76 of the Mercer County American Legion Baseball league will hold tryouts for both old and new players Saturday morning at 9 at the Princeton High School diamond.

All boys between 16 and 18 interested in trying out are invited. For additional information, call Bob Bruschi at 921-9346.

Kandell took the loss, his second without a win, while Notte won his second without a loss.

Before the start of the season, PHS coach Jim O'Neill had listed as one of his team's goals to be over .500 by May 7, the cutoff date to qualify for the NJSIAA post-season tournament. Faster than O'Neill ever thought possible, that goal is already out of reach.

PHS NETMEN LOSE

To Christian Brothers. Living up to its ranking as the state's top tennis team, Christian Brothers Academy kept its record unblemished last week while routing previously-unbeaten Princeton High, 4-1.

Only PHS freshman Scott Clark, the team's number one singles player, was able to stem the CB tide, winning, 7-5, 6-2.

The Little Tigers will engage in home matches against Ewing Wednesday and St. Anthony Thursday (both at 3:45) and will be at West Windsor on Monday. All are Colonial Valley Conference games.

Allen Aronovic won the first set in his number two singles match against Christian Brothers, 6-3, but dropped the second two, 4-6, 2-6. Louis Snijders, No. 3, was blanked, 6-0, 6-0.

Both PHS doubles teams, Hugo Walters-Mike Loew and Seth Sanders-Peter Wilson, lost in straight sets.

"It was a good match," observed PHS coach Joe Diefenbach. He reported that the CB team had six seniors on it, all of whom were "pretty even." He was told by the CB coach that any one could play number one singles.

HUN DIPS BELOW .500

Farragut Here Friday. Losses to Hamilton and Lawrenceville School and a victory over Perkiomen last week left the Hun School baseball team with a 3-4 mark.

"We're hanging around in the middle. We're not opening up and we're not going down the tube; I hope it's not a trend for the year," commented Hun coach Bill McQuade.

"We're not deep in pitching. We don't have the one super guy that can dominate. Whether we'll continue to linger around .500...I don't think so. We have too much good hitting and fielding for that."

Hun will be at Academy of New Church in Bryn Athyn Pa. on Monday and at Newark Academy on Saturday. In between, it will entertain Admiral Farragut here Friday in a game starting at 3:30.

Against Lawrenceville Saturday, Hun scored seven runs, four coming on two-run homers by Tom West and Anthony Bevilacqua. But the Larries had an even better day offensively against Hun hurler Tom Dillione and won, 10-7.

"Both teams hit well but we made a lot of errors," said McQuade, who added that when you score seven runs, you normally expect to win. Dillione (0-2) did not have as much stuff on the ball as he did earlier in the week, McQuade reported. "His pitches were all up in the strike zone and you can't do that against a good hitting club like Lawrenceville."

Against a weak and winless Perkiomen team, Hun had a field day at the plate, banging out 11 hits. That plus nine Perkiomen errors led to a 17-5 victory.

Leading 8-0 after two innings, Hun scored in every frame but the third. Dillione and West each had three hits in five appearances and each knocked in three runs. Bob Kwiatski, who gave up just three hits before yielding to Fred Woolman in the sixth, got the win.

Earlier, Dillione pitched strong ball, giving up only live hits, but Hamilton hurler Dave Mattonelli was even better. He allowed just three hits as Hamilton won, 4-0.

Dave Dudeck, Bob Innocenzi and Rich Arbitelle hit safely for Hun, while shortstop Jim Hudik had a two-run single for the Hornets. Three of Hamilton's four runs were unearned.

SINGLES SCHEDULED

For Women Next Monday. Applications are being accepted at the Center for the annual Mercer County women's singles tournament to be held at the Mercer County Indoor Tennis Center beginning Monday. Deadline for entry is noon Thursday.

All county residents and non-residents who hold seasonal time are eligible. There is no age qualification. Entry fee is one can of new balls.

PHS NIPPED, 4-3

By Allentown Nine. Princeton High School scored two runs in the second to take a short-lived 2-1 lead but Allentown came right back with two in the same frame and held on to take out a 4-3 win. The Monday loss was the faltering Little Tigers' seventh in a row and Allenton's fifth win in eight starts.

Next, PHS will play host to St. Anthony on Thursday at 3:45 and then will oppose Trenton High in Trenton on Monday at 4.

After Allentown had pushed a single run across in the first, PHS went ahead in the second. Bruno Perna doubled and scored on an error by the Redbirds' first baseman on a ball hit by PHS pitcher Keith Phox. Phox then stole second and third and came home with the go-ahead run on Jamie Robertson's single.

Allentown regained the lead when it combined four of its eight hits in the second for two runs. In the fourth, PHS tied it at 3 on an Al Kandell single, another single by Perna, who had two of Princeton's four hits; and Mike Nosal's sacrifice fly.

But again, the home team came right back in the same inning as second baseman Tim Wharton doubled home the winning run. Phox went the distance for PHS, striking out two. His record is 1-1.

His counterpart, Bob Gosselin, won his first (1-1) and fanned nine, striking out each PHS batter once.

TRACKMEN 94-37 VICTIM

Lose to Steinert. Only in the dashes and the jumping events was Princeton High School able to dent Steinert's dominance in a dual track meet Tuesday at Steinert. The Spartans won, 94-37.

Strong won the 100-yard dash in 10.47 and the 220 in 23.2. Ken Bullock, who finished second to Strong in the 100, captured the high jump with a leap of 5-8. Barry Turner won the long jump (19-7 1/4) while Nick Piroue finished second in his specialty, the 880, with a clocking of 2:06.5. Steinert's Dave D'Zurilla won the event in 2:01.9.

Steinert swept the pole vault and won every other event.

The Little Tigers will host Hamilton this Wednesday at 3:45 and will be at West Windsor on Tuesday.

PHS GIRLS UNBEATEN
Now 3-0 in Lacrosse. A game this Wednesday afternoon with Princeton Day School bars the Princeton High School girls lacrosse team from continuing its unbeaten season. In games to date it has scored 37 goals and yielded four while defeating Morristown, 10-2; Peddie, 15-2; and Montclair, 12-0.

Twelve of the 22 members of the squad returned from last year's team, which reached another single by Perna, who had two of Princeton's four hits; and Mike Nosal's sacrifice fly.

PRINCETON IS CHOSEN

Ry Randy Melville. Princeton Day School, through its predecessor Princeton Country Day, has a long list of graduates who have played varsity hockey for Princeton University, but no one has ever done the same thing on a basketball court.

Randy Melville will change that this fall, when he enrolls in the Class of 1981 at Princeton. The 6-4 forward, who helped lead the Panthers to three consecutive state prep championships in the B division, chose to come here over Pennsylvania, Brown and Lafayette.

A knee injury suffered last July put Melville's senior year at PDS and college plans in jeopardy, but his determination to recover eventually paid off in two ways. Months of skipping rope, lifting weights and whirlpool strong won the 100-yard dash in 10.47 and the 220 in 23.2. Ken Bullock, who finished second to Strong in the 100, captured the high jump with a leap of 5-8. Barry Turner won the long jump (19-7 1/4) while Nick Piroue finished second in his specialty, the 880, with a clocking of 2:06.5. Steinert's Dave D'Zurilla won the event in 2:01.9.

Steinert swept the pole vault and won every other event.

The Little Tigers will host Hamilton this Wednesday at 3:45 and will be at West Windsor on Tuesday.

baths enabled Melville to start the season on time with the leg almost 100 percent healed. He averaged 17.7 points per game.

This dedication also impressed Tiger basketball coach Pete Carril, who looks for that kind of quality in his players. Having played for Alan Taback at Princeton Day, Melville will have a head start in fitting into Carril's style of play. Both coaches emphasize patient offense, and good strong team defense.

Melville's interest in the academic side of life became apparent when he chose to come to Princeton Day School, instead of Trenton High at the urging of his older brother, Vernon.

"It was a tough decision. I followed Trenton as a kid and watched all the games while my brother played. But I never regretted the decision once I made it," said Melville. "Athletically I may have profited by the competition Trenton plays, but I don't feel I then would have been Princeton material."

PHS GIRLS LOSE
In Softball, 12-5. The Princeton High School girls softball team dropped its second game in a row last week, losing, 12-5, to visiting Allentown. Its record is now 4-3.

The Little Tigers had six hits, one a double by Barbara Miller, but committed an equal number of errors. They scored four of its five runs in the first to take a 4-2 lead.

Allentown catcher Sue Eckley had four hits and Kim Pullen three, as the victors pounded out 15 in all and won the game with a seven-run outburst in the sixth. Carol Mazzella took the loss for Princeton.

SOFTBALL FOR WOMEN
And Tennis Too. Those interested in playing in the Princeton Women's Softball League this summer should call the Recreation Department at 921-9480 or come in to register in the old Valley Road School building.

Interested persons must be 18 or older, a resident of Princeton, or be employed full-time in Princeton. The deadline for registration is Thursday, May 12.

There will be a team managers' meeting at 7:30 p.m. on May 12 in the Recreation Office. A draft for new players will be conducted and those who are not already registered as a team, and would like to do so, should plan to send a manager to this meeting.

Evening Tennis Planned. The Recreation Department is also organizing a Women's Evening Tennis League open to Borough and Township residents who are 18 years of age by May 1.

The program will consist of Round-Robin Doubles Competition and will run from early May through June 30. Players are asked to register with a partner and to rank themselves as novice, intermediate or advanced. To register, call the Recreation

9 loss to rival Princeton Day School, PHS demolished visiting Edison, 15-1. Ahead 6-0 at the end of the first period, the Little Tigers could do no wrong. Even an entire jayvee lineup scored six more goals in the final period.

"We were hot," agreed Cirullo. "We were moving the ball around like it was unbelievable. Everything went in."

Morgan Mohrman, the team's leading scorer, led the rout with five goals and one assist. Chris Cahill added three and Bobby Campbell a pair of goals. Five PHS players scored once.

Third Loss to PDS. Sweet as the win over Edison was, it couldn't wipe out completely the bitter 10-9 loss to PDS—"a game we really shouldn't have lost," said Cirullo—the third loss in three years to PDS.

With 50 seconds left in overtime play, PHS seemed to have the game locked up. It led 9-7, the result of OT goals by Mohrman and Jamie Lasher. PHS called time out and planned to control the ball during the final minute of play.

But things conspired, in Cirullo's opinion, to let the Panthers get back in the game. First, an official across the field called a penalty—one that couldn't possibly be called under conditions at the time, Cirullo insisted—that caused PHS to lose possession.

Then PDS got a "garbage goal" in front of the cage and with one second left on the clock, which Cirullo claimed was being kept by a 10-year old, PDS tied it at 9.

In sudden death, PDS got possession, came down the field and scored. "There was no question about the winning goal," said Cirullo, but he added that he was very upset about what had happened earlier. "It was a game we shouldn't have lost," he repeated.

Morgan and Lasher each tallied three times for PHS, Johnny Morris added two goals and Cahill one. Cirullo conceded that one reason for the unhappy outcome was the standout play of the Panthers' Rob Olsson, who scored six goals.

The split left PHS with a 3-2 record. Both losses were by one goal; both were games PHS should have won, Cirullo maintains. "Normally, I don't say that unless I think so," he said. "All I can say is, we're a damn good 3-2 ball club."

PHS LOSES LEAD
Bows In Lacrosse, 7-5. "The story of my life," sighed Bill Cirullo, Princeton High lacrosse coach.

For the second time within a week, PHS dropped a lacrosse game after regulation time, losing Monday to Lawrenceville, 7-5. What made the loss so tough against the highly-ranked Larries is that the Little Tigers led early, 4-0.

"The kids still can't believe it happened," said Cirullo. "Maybe we ran out of a little steam at the end. We didn't keep the pressure on; maybe we were playing too much defense."

From a 4-1 first period, Lawrenceville closed to within one, 5-4, after three periods and tied the game in the last few minutes of play. The first half of the overtime was scoreless.

In the second half, PHS lost a man for 30 seconds when a substitute inadvertently failed to enter the game from the required midfield area. Lawrenceville was able to take advantage of the extra man and score—the first extra-man goal PHS has given up in four games.

"We've got a wonderful extra-man defense," said Cirullo. "No one can crack it, but they did. They picked a great time to score."

Matt Adriance scored two of Princeton's five goals; the remaining three were single tallies. Princeton's record is now even at 3-3.

TENNIS WORKSHOP SET
For Teachers in the Sport. The third annual Princeton Community Tennis Teachers Workshop will take place June 10 and 11. This is a two-day intensive training session concentrating on the Workbook Method of group instruction.

The workshop is participatory and registrants will be active on court, divided into groups with opportunity to work with different instructors. Demonstrators will present progressions in all levels of playing ability, including drills and exercises to cover the entire range from beginner to advanced players. In addition to teacher training, the two-day program will also cover topics such as agenda planning, class organization, financing and promotion.

This year's sessions are headed by Eve Kraft, Director and Founder of the Princeton Community Tennis Program; Doug MacCurdy, Director of Instruction, Lawrenceville Tennis Camp; Art Cramp, Pro at Somerset Indoor Tennis Club; Bill Humes and Joe Diefenbach, tennis coaches at Princeton High School; John Zorzi, of Princeton Regional Schools; and Henry Talbert, Coordinator of the USTA National Tennis Development Program.

Those interested in attending should write for registration information to: Mrs. Akira Asano, Workshop Coordinator, Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton, 71 University Place.

SEASON OPENS
With Tournament at Springdale. A Scramblers Tournament for men began the 1977 season Saturday at Springdale Golf Club. The winning foursome, which recorded a seven-under-par 64, consisted of Ken Dawes, John Ellsworth, Donovan Elles and Ken Burkhead.

Three other foursomes were runners-up with scores of 66. They were composed of Arthur Fuller, Mickey Shannon, Bert Edmunds and Ted Tams; Ross Shrader, Charlie Foster, Jim Schwartz and Jim Meade; Ollie Houghton, Bill O'Shaughnessy, John Loughlin and Dick Schranz.

On the 14th hole, the longest-drive contest was won by Patrick Rulon-Miller. The closest shot to the pin on the 128-yard 15th was credited to Jack Childress, whose ball came to rest 17½ inches from the cup.
